PENNANT RACES IN MAJOR LEAGUES HAVE TIGHTENED UP

Red Sox Have Only Three-Game Lead Over Tigers, and Braves Are But Game and a Half Behind Brooklyn.

Harry Harper is likely to oppose tould, the diminutive right-hander of the Indians, today. Harper took a work-out yesterday and after fielding bunts for fully half an hour and working up a good sweat he announced that his arm was back in form, and that his arm was back in form, and that he would be ready to pitch today. Griffith, however, will look him over in the warm-up before he decides to let him pitch, and if Harry is not right Bert Gallia will be sent to the mound.

Cullop, who won twelve straight games for the Yankees this spring, does not seem to have recovered from the injury to his back, where a lot of muscles were dislocated, and he has been a picnic for the teams which have faced him of late. In fact, none of the Donovan twirlers has been doing as good as they did early in the season, and the star of them all, Caldwell, still is under suspension for violation of the club's rules. In fact, the pitcher Harry Harper is likely to oppos fielder and all-around athlete, made his initial appearance in major league ball for the Cleveland team. Bergman made a very favorable impression. He is one of the fastest runners ever seen in base ball, and he apparently has a splendid batting eye, not hitting at anything that is not over the plate. In the fifth inning, with one out, he anything that is not over the plate. In the fifth inming, with one out, he hit down the first base line for three bases, and scored the second run for the Indians when O'Neil drove a single to left. In the field Bergman handled every chance offered him, three in number. He has never played second before, being a college shortstop, but he did very well at that.
